<tr>
<td>1. Gather, interpret, and assess information from a variety of sources and points of view.</td>
<td>1. Readings from the primary text are supplemented with video documentaries on the history of graphic design and online materials from authoritative museum and educational sites. Students attend at least two museum exhibitions on specialized topics, selecting, comparing, and analyzing multiple objects from each exhibition.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Evaluate evidence and arguments critically or analytically.</td>
<td>3. Museum exhibitions and published criticism are assigned and discussed in class. In museum-based writing assignments, students apply historical knowledge, concepts and terminology from readings and lectures to museum objects they select for visual and historical analysis.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. Produce well-reasoned written or oral arguments using evidence to support conclusions.</td>
<td>5. Students witness at the Morgan Library and Museum the Renaissance origins of present-day typography. Course materials interpret graphic design objects in the specific historical and cultural contexts of their creation, and functions that range from corporate tool to catalyst of change. Students demonstrate competence in these topics in museum papers, tests, and classroom discussion.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4. Identify and apply the fundamental concepts and methods of a discipline or interdisciplinary field exploring creative expression, including, but not limited to, arts, communications, creative writing, media arts, music, and theater.</td>
<td>7. Articulate how meaning is created in the arts or communications and how experience is interpreted and conveyed.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5. Analyze how arts from diverse cultures of the past serve as a foundation for those of the present, and describe the significance of works of art in the societies that created them.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6. Demonstrate knowledge of the skills involved in the creative process.</td>

interventions at play in every stage in the creative process. Lessons focus on periods of disruptive and creative change in tools and publics.

8. Use appropriate technologies to conduct research and to communicate.

8. Over the course of the semester, students are introduced to reliable online resources for the history of the book, the origins of the graphic design profession, Modernism, and the emergence and dominance of digital media. They consult museum collection databases, search professional and academic journals, create and revise online graded work, and produce written assignments in platform-independent digital formats.

Schedule of class meetings.
Blackboard will have more detail, handouts, copies of the presentations, and targeted readings.

Week 1 – Class business. How to use Blackboard; first museum assignment (Morgan Library and Museum). The first three lessons will be concerned with the Ancient World, the Medieval Era, and the Printed book from Gutenberg (the Renaissance) to Bodoni (the Enlightenment). POLICY STATEMENTS

NYCCT ACADEMIC INTEGRITY POLICY
“Students and all others who work with information, ideas, texts, images, music, inventions, and other intellectual property owe their audience and sources accuracy and honesty in using, crediting, and citing sources. As a community of intellectual and professional workers, the College recognizes its responsibility for providing instruction in information literacy and academic integrity, offering models of good practice, and responding vigilantly and appropriately to infractions of academic integrity. Accordingly, academic dishonesty is prohibited in The City University of New York and at New York City College of Technology and is punishable by penalties, including failing grades, suspension, and expulsion.” (See pp. 73-76 in the Student Handbook.)

ACCESSIBILITY STATEMENT
City Tech is committed to supporting the educational goals of enrolled students with disabilities in the areas of enrollment, academic advisement, tutoring, assistive technologies and testing accommodations. If you have or think you may have a disability, you may be eligible for reasonable accommodations or academic adjustments as provided under applicable federal, state and city laws. You may also request services for temporary conditions or medical issues under certain circumstances. If you have questions about your eligibility or would like to seek accommodation services or academic adjustments, you can leave a voicemail at 718 260 5143, send an email to Accessibility@citytech.cuny.edu or visit the Center’s website http://www.citytech.cuny.edu/accessibility/ for more information.

N.B., Students who miss a scheduled presentation or exam due to illness or medically-related emergencies will be referred to the Center for Student Accessibility. The CSA will review any documentation requested and give the student a letter to share with the relevant instructor if accommodations need to be made.

HUMANITIES DEPARTMENT ATTENDANCE POLICY
It is the conviction of the Humanities department that a student who is not in a class for any reason is not receiving the benefit of the education being provided. Missed class time includes not just absences but also latenesses, early departures, and time outside the classroom taken by students during class meeting periods. Missed time impacts any portion of the final grade overtly allocated to participation and/or any grades awarded for activities that relate to presence in class.

HUMANITIES DEPARTMENT COMMITMENT TO STUDENT DIVERSITY
The Humanities Department complies with the college wide nondiscrimination policy and seeks to foster a safe and inclusive learning environment that celebrates diversity in its many forms and enhances our students’ ability to be informed, global citizens. Through our example, we demonstrate an appreciation of the rich diversity of world cultures and the unique forms of expression that make us human.
